

Among the victims of the Indian massacre on the Sappa, were John Irwin, of this county, and his friend W. M. Lull. Mr. Lull had taken several claims in Decatur county, and Mr. Irwin went with him to spend a few days, when they were murdered by the Indians. Mr. Irwin was one of the most esteemed young men here, and had, during the time he was in our midst, acquired considerable property, and was on the sure road to wealth. He was temperate, and a young man of extreme good habits, and was well thought of by his neighbors.—Smith Co. Pioneer.
